Contributions: PROCEEDINGS OF THE IEEE publishes comprehensive, in-depth review, tutorial, and survey papers written for technically knowledgeable readers who are not necessarily specialists in the subjects being treated. Applications and technological issues, as well as theory, are emphasized. The topics include all aspects of electrical and computer engineering and science. Papers are authored by recognized authorities and reviewed by experts. Our papers should include extensive introductions written at a level suitable for the nonspecialist, with ample references for those who wish to probe further. Special issues are devoted to a single subject of special importance.

Proposals: Prospective authors, before preparing a full-length manuscript, should submit a proposal containing a description of the topic and its importance to PROCEEDINGS readers, a detailed outline of the proposed paper and its type of coverage, and a brief biography showing the author's qualifications for writing the paper (including reference to previously published material as well as information on the author's relation to the topic). If the proposal receives a favorable review, the author will be encouraged to prepare the paper and submit it to ScholarOne Manuscripts. Please send proposals to Vaishali Damle, Managing Editor, PROCEEDINGS OF THE IEEE. Email: v.damle@ieee.org.

Manuscripts: Full-length manuscripts should be submitted to ScholarOne Manuscripts: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/pieee>. Instructions and tutorials can be found on the main page.

Copyright: It is the policy of the IEEE to own the copyright to the technical contributions it publishes on behalf of the interests of the IEEE, its authors, and their employers and to facilitate the appropriate reuse of this material by others. To comply with the U.S. Copyright Law, authors are requested to sign an IEEE copyright form before publication. This form, a copy of which is found in the most recent January issue of the journal, returns to authors and their employers rights to reuse their material for their own purposes.
